AT HOME WITH BRIE

A new podcast connecting kids to kids!

From the maker of Imagine This on ABC Kids Listen, Brianna Peterson is excited to launch the first season of her very own podcast At Home With Brie, curated for children by children.

At Home With Brie was created to answer the countless messages and emails Brianna received during lockdown. Parents and kids reached out in need of a familiar voice as the pandemic left many children unsettled and isolated from their social networks.

"This podcast is a way for kids to connect across the country, and to hear that they aren't alone. No matter your circumstances, there's always another kid out there listening - who likes the same things or is going through something similar. We're really not that different from each other", says Brianna.

Each episode features conversations with kids from different parts of Australia to find out what they've been doing around the house. From throwing a birthday party for the family dog, to camping out in the lounge room… it turns out there's plenty of mischief to be had around the home!

Produced in the Blue Mountains, Brianna uses her background in early childcare and psychology to make mindful content for growing minds. As an established audio and sound producer, Brianna takes snapshots of daily life to infuse magic and play into child-led podcasts for kids.

"I am so excited to be launching the first season of At Home With Brie. Working with children and hearing their perspective on life is such a joy. I love making the podcast and I am sure our little listeners will love it too.", adds Brianna.

All ten episodes of At Home With Brie are now available to stream on iTunes, Spotify, or wherever you get your podcasts.
